There are as many reasons for joining a choir as there are members. An affinity with music is a good start. Some singers enjoy a weekly two hours away from day-to-day pressure in the company of fellows. Others thrive on the camaraderie that spills over into social activities like cycling, crown-green bowling, clay-pigeon shooting and trips to the brewery.

Whatever their starting ability and confidence, most singers improve and wish to keep improving, striving for their personal best.

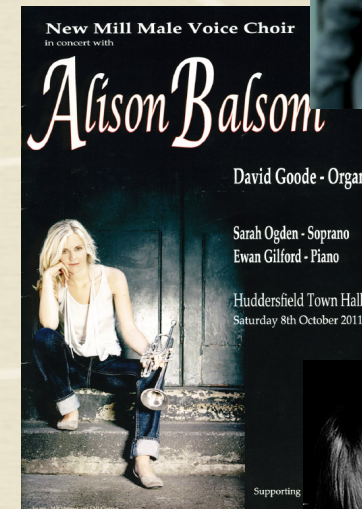

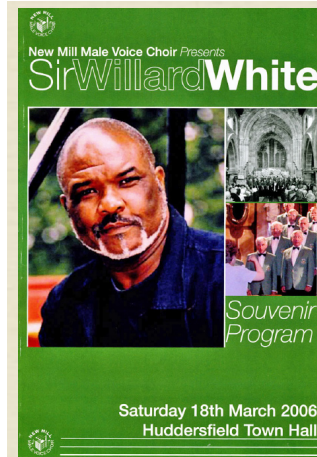

Some of our concerts are free, but many are not. Attracting a paying audience can focus the mind. Receipts often go to local projects and charities.

Our programme peaks at the Huddersfield Town Hall when we share the stage with high profile guests (Willard White, Aled Jones, Morriston Orpheus Choir, Julian Lloyd-Webber, Alison Balsom, Band of the Yorkshire Regiment). Singers, conductor and pianist are all on their musical mettle and the choir and supporters work hard to ensure a commercial success.

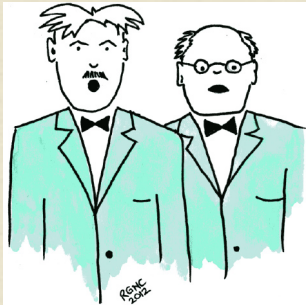

Touring (Italy, Catalonia, Czech Republic, Poland) combines concert performances with a holiday. Invariably the choir's quality improves.

We were not a competition choir until 2009 when we became South Yorkshire champions at the Don Valley Festival held at Elsecar Heritage Centre. We repeated the success in 2010 and came second in 2011.

We have recently returned from the Cornish Festival (May 2013), where over 60 choirs, 4 of them from Huddersfield, and 3000 singers performed in 50 events at 40 locations across Cornwall. A Bank Holiday treat.

New Mill rehearses between 7.45 and 9.45pm on Tuesday nights
at New Mill Club.
